“I do not support marina slip expansion into the west harbour. I would propose that we evaluate a way to reconfigure the main harbour in a way that can add additional slips, so that the marina can remain profitable, and the west harbour can remain as natural as possible” – Aaron Burchat

Growing up in the Cobourg area, Aaron has always called it his home. Aaron wanted to stay in Cobourg and be able to raise his family here. He was fortunate enough to be able to find employment locally with a Security and Telecommunications company right after graduating from Sir Sanford Fleming College 13 years ago, and he still works there today. He has been married for 12 years to his wife, Lindy, and is a father to 3 children, London, Ocean, and Myla. This past November, Aaron and Lindy purchased an already established local retail business, and were able to prevent a long time business in Cobourg from closing, when the previous owner was ready to retire.

His mission is to make sure that Cobourg stays an enjoyable place for the youth of this community, as well as a place that offers employment opportunities, so the kids who grew up here aren't forced to leave for lack of options for their future.

Aaron is passionate and takes great pride in his community. He supports local groups and community organizations whenever he can.
